DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 7/24/06 has been entered.

Applicant threatens to appeal the instant case if the claims are not allowed and applicant is informed that a formal notice of appeal is necessary for that process.

Applicant argues that the examiner ignored the declaration of Dr Comer, however the previous office action clearly addressed the declaration of the inventor as to why his claims were patentable (see Final Rejection, page 2, paragraph 1). Applicant should also note that a Final Rejection is a reiteration of a first office action wherein a new grounds of rejection is not necessary due to amendment or argument.

Applicant chose not to comment on the examiner's assertion that "applicant must show possession of the invention be it a method or product. Further, applicant would be attempting to "reach through" the instant assay to claim possession of unknown constructs as applicant's definition of "irritant responsive... construct" literally encompasses unknowns."

Applicant's previously presented arguments have been persuasive to show that the subject matter of claim 8 is allowable. It is clear that applicant had possession of the reporter portion of the construct even if the generic promoters were not shown to be in applicant's possession.

Claim Objections

Claim 8 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 1-7 remain rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. Applicant claims using "a skin equivalent comprising an irritant responsive reporter gene construct" but the specification lacks description to convey that applicant has possession of the claimed invention. Applicant identifies 2 genes as being "irritant responsive" which is insufficient to describe an entire genus, i.e. "irritant responsive gene(s)" particularly since applicant intends for the phrase "irritant responsive gene" to encompass unknowns.

The written description requirement for a claimed genus may be satisfied through sufficient description of a representative number of species by actual reduction to practice, reduction to drawings, or by disclosure of relevant, identifying characteristics, i.e., structure or other physical and/or chemical properties, by functional characteristics coupled with a known or disclosed correlation between function and structure, or by a combination of such identifying characteristics, sufficient to show the applicant was in possession of the claimed genus. See Eli Lilly, 119 F.3d at 1568, 43 USPQ2d at 1406

A "representative number of species" means that the species which are adequately described are representative of the entire genus. Thus, when there is substantial variation within the genus, one must describe a sufficient variety of species to reflect the variation within the genus. On the other hand, there may be situations where one species adequately supports a genus the genus could not be defined by function because function only disclosed what chemical structure did rather than what the chemical structure was. The Court went on to state "A description of a genus of cDNAs may be achieved by means of a recitation of a representative number of cDNAs, defined by nucleotide sequence, falling within the scope of the genus or of a recitation of structural features common to the members of the genus, which features constitute a substantial portion of the genus. Lilly, 119 F.3d at 1569.
